PUBLISHERS' NOTICE.

It is with much diffidence that the compilers of this volume send it forth from their hands. The task which they so suddenly assumed, was as unpremeditated as unexpected;—and while they feel that every exertion has been made which was, in their power, they are still aware, that the work is by no means as perfect as experience and time would have made it. It was not before the want of a Village Directory was felt, and the fact announced that none would be published—by our esteemed fellow citizen who for three years had performed that task—that the present compilers entered upon this, to them, new field of labor.

The lateness of its appearance will, of course, be excused by all who know that it was not commenced until June 10th.

Should it fall to their lot to cater for the public in this way the ensuing year, they believe that the experience already attained would do much towards rendering the work more complete and useful than the present.

SAMUEL & T. F. REYNOLDS.

CAUTION.—No person is authorised to collect money for any advertisement inserted in this work who does not produce written authority signed by the publishers.

☞ For names omitted in their proper places see end of the list of names.

WILLIAMSBURGH DIRECTORY

FOR 1850-51,

NOTE.—Names having a * are those of colored people. Abbreviations.—av. stands for avenue, b. for between, c. for corner, carp. for carpenter, com. for commission, h. for house, manf. for manufacturer, lab. for laborer, mert. for merchant, mkr. for maker, n. for near, op. for opposite, N. for north, and S. for south.

The order in which the numbering of houses are arranged, is as follows, viz : On all the streets running North and South, the numbering commences at the Brooklyn line. On those running East and West, the numbering in the First and Second Districts, commences at the East River and ends at Union Avenue, excepting Grand and North Second streets, on which the numbering continues on to Bushwick Avenue. The numbering on all the other streets in the Third District, running East and West, continues at Union Avenue.

The names in CAPITALS are the names of those, who have either subscribed for a Directory, or inserted an Advertisement.

GROCERY STORE.

D. TARBOX,

Would respectfully inform the people of Williamsburgh, that he has opened a Store on the corner of South 8th and 5th streets, where he intends keeping a general assortment of

CHOICE

FAMILY GROCERIES,

And hopes that by strict attention to his business, and moderation in his prices, to merit a share of their patronage.

THE OLDEST SHOE STORE IN THE VILLAGE.

D. SAVAGE,

Continues to sell at

126 Grand Street, 4 doors above Fourth,

WILLIAMSBURGH,

All kinds of the best quality of Ladies' and Gentlemens' Boots and Shoes. Having been in the business, in this Village, rising ten years, he feels assured that he can furnish the inhabitants of this Village with Boots and Shoes as cheap as can be purchased in New York. He would not propose to sell at the lowest prices, his long experience having taught him that the lowest priced articles are not the best; and, consequentiy, he does not keep on hand damaged auction goods, or slop-made work.

He would avail himself of this method of returning his thanks for the large share of public patronage already conferred, and pledges himself to do his utmost to give satisfaction to all who may give him a call.

P. S. A large assortment of Men's, Women's and Misses' Rubbers, of the best quality, all of which are warranted not to melt down, or tear out; if so, they will be replaced by a new pair.

WILLIAM ARMSTRONG,

MECHANICS' SHIRT STORE,

134½ Grand St. Williamsburgh.

A full assortment of Gentlemen's Furnishing Goods on hand. Also, Thread, Needles, Hosiery, Gloves and Fancy Goods.

Cheap for Cash.

A choice assortment, and of the best materials, always on hand.

J. THOMSON,

142 Grand Street, Williamsburgh.

SCHULTZ, BAKERY & CONFECTIONARY.

The attention of the public is respectfully invited to the above establishment, 172 EWEN Street, where may be found constantly a large supply of CAKES, of all descriptions, of the best quality and finest mould.

Also—Family Baking attended to with the utmost care and dispatch.

Remember—THEODORE SCHULTZ,

BAKERY AND CONFECTIONARY,

WILLIAMSBURGH

GRAMMAR SCHOOL,

FOURTH STREET, cor. South 9th St.

The proprietors of this Institution have the pleasure of stating, that in consequence of the great addition to their numbers, they have been obliged to contract for the erection of a building expressly for their purposes, which will be ready by September next—the one they now occupy being altogether too small for their wants. This building will be thoroughly ventilated and well furnished.

The play ground, which will contain 5000 square feet, will be made interesting and healthful.

Each department, although all are under the general supervision of the Rector, has its own teacher. By this systematic arrangement, Pupils will be received at all ages, and fitted for such pursuits in life as the parents and guardians may desire

The teaching of Latin & Greek, is based upon the system so successfully practiced in the modern languages.

The study of Arithmetic—a thorough knowledge of which is so important, is conducted by analysis, a method which inculcates the principles of the science, expanding the mind at every step.

In Orthography, McElligott's Analytical Manual has been used with a success which challenges competition; and in the other studies, such books have been selected, as experience has stamped with her seal of approval.

French, Vocal Music and Drawing, will be regular studies, without extra charge. All the pupils have access to a large and well selected Library.

INSTRUCTORS.

Rev CHAS. REYNOLDS, A. M. Patron, and weekly Lecturer on English Literature, &c.

SAM'L REYNOLDS, Rector, and Teacher of Vocal Music & Arithmetic, Algebra, &c

Williamsburgh Seminary,

FOR YOUNG LADIES,

FOURTH STREET, corner of South Ninth.

THE MISSES BUNCE,

Would respectfully inform their patrons and the public, that they intend MOVING their School, on the FIRST of SEPTEMBER next, from 89 Fourth St. to the

COR. OF FOURTH & SOUTH NINTH STREETS,

where every necessary accommodation will be provided, and every privilege enjoyed, as before, with the additional advantage of a Spacious Pleasure Ground and Gymnasium Exercises.

The School will be divided into several Departments, having over each a competent Teacher, over which the Principal will preside. Pupils will be received at all ages and capacities.

The FRENCH LANGUAGE will be spoken throughout the School, thereby rendering the study profitable and agreeable. French, Vocal Music and Drawing, without extra charge.

COMPOSITION will be a weekly exercise, under the charge of a competent Teacher, in which important exercise the pupils will be aided by having access to a large and well selected Library.

Vocal Music, Arithmetic, Book-Keeping and Algebra will be taught by Mr. SAMUEL REYNOLDS, French and Drawing by Mons. ABADIE, and Latin by Mr. THOMAS F REYNOLDS.

Weekly Lectures on Anatomy, Physiology, Higiene, Botany, &c. &c. will be delivered by Doct GULICK.

Plain and Ornamental Iron Works,

230 GRAND STREET.

IRON RAILINGS.

For Public and Private Buildings and Parks, of every variety of form and pattern.

CEMETERY RAILINGS,

Of classic and unique designs. Particular attention paid to this branch of trade, combining strength, neatness and durability, and of different varieties.

VERANDAHS—This useful and highly ornamental Iron Work, made in every possible variety of pattern.

STAIR CASES—For Dwellings and Ware Houses, of wrought and cast Iron, from new and original designs.

IRON BEDSTEADS.

They are lighter than any wooden bedstead, free from "BUGS," can be taken down and put up in one minute, and by a composition put on, safe from lightning; and by their simple and peculiar construction, not liable to get out of repair.

Iron Chairs and Settees for Gardens, Halls & Piazzas.

BALCONIES, BRACKETS, CONSOLES, &c.

Of various patterns, styles and finish.

Doors and Window Shutters.—Fire proof Bank Doors, Book Safes, Vaults, Store Doors and Window Shutters. Particular attention paid to fitting up Stores and Houses against thieves.

IRON ROCKING CHAIRS of a neat and elegant pattern

Enamelled Grates and Fenders

Of various styles, embracing Louis XIV. Elizabethean, Gothic and modern patterns; and for elegance of finish not surpassed by any other establishment.

GAS FIXTURES—For Public Buildings, Stores and Dwellings, in all their varieties and patterns, with neatness and dispatch.

WROUGHT IRON ROOFS,

For Stores, Banking Houses, Observatories, Domes, and fire proof buildings. Specimen can be seen at the Gas House.

IRON SKY LIGHTS FOR STORES, &c. BRONZE & GILT BRACKETS for Piers and Parlors. STRONG CAST IRON COLUMS FOR BUILDERS.

☞ Repairing and Jobbing attended to with dispatch. ☜

Persons wishing work done in our line, by sending a ground plan or sketch, can have a drawing sent, suitable for building.

☞ No connection with any other establishment. ☜

PUBLIC NOTICE.

S. P. TOWNSEND ABANDONED THE FIELD!

THE WAR ENDED!

This young man who sought to make the people believe his Sarsaparilla was original has finally abandoned the field, by selling his business to some STRANGERS. Being convinced of the inutility of warring against the better judgment and convictions of the people, he has at last disposed of his business and retired from the contest, thus virtually admitting all that was true in our publications. After accusing the Old Dr. of selling the use of his name for $7 a week, and getting up false "affidavits" respecting the Old Doctor's original Receipe, after trying to seduce one of our workmen to disclose to him a knowledge of the Old Doctor's receipe by offering as high as $1,000; after making the most tempting offers to the Old Doctor himself, of houses, lands, money and partnership, through his counsel Horace Dresser and Van Pelt, to leave Thompson, Skillman & Co., and go over to S. P. Townsend with his Receipe and teach him to make Sarsaparilla so as not to sour, ferment and burst the bottles. After libelling the members of our firm calling us "a set of unprincipled men," and other hard names, he has finally thrown up the whole business as too heavy a load to carry, and tumbled the burden upon the shoulders of some STRANGERS, whom he induced to take his place under the pretence that they could make money by the operation.

These strangers, we understand, intend placing some chemist's name on the bottles to redeem it from its past character for souring and fermenting, which is really the highest acknowledgment of the truth of all we have heretofore said of it. It is a virtual confession that it was neither made by a chemist heretofore, nor had the advantage of chemical science in its manufacture. Will not the people now see the imposition and humbug in calling S. P.'s article a good medicine?

But we confess all rascality formerly displayed, is nothing to that of these Strangers in placing upon the bottles the name of some chemist, for effect, whilst at the same time the Sarsaparilla is made after the formula of S. P. Townsend's Receipe.

If the Receipe is changed, then it becomes another article, and should be called the Stranger's Sarsaparilla or by some other distinctive appellation. Come out Gentlemen Strangers and show your hands, and let the public know whether you intend to make S. P. Townsend's souring, fermenting compound with the name of a chemist on the label for certain purposes, or whether you are making another and totally different article, but intend putting it up in S. P.'s bottles, with his labels, signature, &c., and thus selling it under false colors? The mere fact of sticking a chemist's name on the bottle, will never change its character.

OLD DOCTOR

ANSWER TO THE

STRANGER'S CARD,

FROM

WHOLESALE AND RETAIL DRUGGISTS,

ALSO TO

S. P. TOWNSEND'S AFFIDAVIT.

We desire to call the attention of the public to the following card of the wholesale druggists in this city (the same who signed one for those strangers.) It will be seen that this puts the matter in a different light although these strangers intended it to injure the good Old Dr. Jacob. We found on putting the question, that on the whole the Old Doctor's received the preference as a medicine. One of the reasons assigned, no doubt, was that it never soured, while S. P.'s did ferment and burst the bottles so generally that it was hardly worth taking as a gift.

But we are keeping the reader from

THE CARD.

We, the Undersigned, Druggists of the City of New-York, desire to say that in signing a card that we had dealt in S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, we did not intend to express any opinion in reference to any medicinal qualities which that or the preparation known as Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla may have, as we deal in both kinds.

In connection with this we give an extract of a card published by all the principal retail stores in the city, some of them the largest and finest houses in the United States. Nearly twenty Physicians give their testimony also. In this card there are no two opinion in this matter Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla is THE Sarsaparilla, and far preferable in their estimation to S. P.'s article. Read—

CARD TO THE PUBLIC.

We, the undersigned, Physicians and Druggists of New York, Brooklyn and Williamsburg, feel called upon to state our personal views of the real merits of the two Townsends' Sarsaparilla. Of the claims preferred by the parties to the original Sarsaparilla we have nothing to do, and leave them to settle that matter between themselves. But we feel that we ought to give the reasons why we prefer to use and sell Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla to Mr. S P. Townsend's, and leave the public to judge whether we are "deceivers and swindlers," and not to be trusted by so doing.

1. Our experience and observations have satisfied us that the Old Dr.'s Sarsaparilla possesses more medical power and virtue than S. P. Townsends, and the testimony of the public would seem to be the same, and we always make it a matter of conscience and duty, when two articles bearing the same name, and purporting to cure the same diseases are in market, to sell that which we consider the best. The fact that S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla has greatly soured, fermented and exploded the bottles, thereby giving great dissatisfaction to our customers, has influenced us in our preference of the Old Dr.'s preparation. When asked by our customers for our opinion which we believe under all circumstances to be the best, we should not hesitate in giving our preference to Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's. With these views, we leave the public to decide if we are not justified in giving the Old Dr.'s preparation that preference which it seems to deserve as a medicinal compound, as well as the choice of the people so universally manifested in its favor.

Having noticed with great pleasure a "CARD TO THE PUBLIC," put forth by over Sixty Physicians and Druggists in the City of New York on the relative merits of the two Townsend's Sasaparilla, in which great preference is expressed in favor of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, over that made by Mr. S. P. Townsend, we, the ugdersigned do most cordially concur in this opinion. We would, therefore, conscientiously recommend the sick to use Old Dr. Jacob's Sarsaparilla, instead of S. P.'s article.

We ask the PUBLIC to read the following affidavit side by side with S. P. Townsend's, and then let them judge what confidence can be placed in the WORD or OATH of a man who can swear that what he had proposed or done through his Agent he had not done at all. It is a principle recognized by the laws of all nations, by common sense, and the principles of justice, honor and equity, as acknowledged by all men, "THAT WHAT A MAN DOES THROUGH HIS AGENT, OR THROUGH ANOTHER, HE DOES HIMSELF." Horace Dresser is well known in the City of New-York to have been at the time referred to in the Affidavit below, the Retained, the Feed, the Lawyer of S. P. Townsend, and then employed by S. P. to embarrass and harrass the Old Dr. by lawsuits, Dresser having no interest in the Sarsaparilla business, except as the counsel of S. P. Townsend What then are the inevitable inferences from the offers of Horace Dresser, as shown below, but these—1st, That Dresser was authorized! by S. P. Townsend to make them and hence his oath is a shameless evasion. 3d, That S. P. Townsend is not the author of the original Sarsaparilla, or the genuine Article, and wanted to get hold of the true kind at any cost. This being further corroborated by the Affidavit of Mr. Levis, following the Old Dr.'s. If any thing could bury S. P. Townsend beyond the hope of resurrection, these Affidavits must most effectually do this.

But still more effectually to nail S. P.'s Affidavit to the counter we add, that the Old Dr. Jacob never made Affidavit that he had no interest in the Sarsaparilla to which his name is fixed." He will leave the public to judge whether he is worthy to be called the son of any man whom he has so ruthlessly wronged and sought to destroy without cause!

STATE, CITY AND COUNTY OF NEW YORK, S S.

I, Jacob Townsend of the said city, being duly sworn, do depose and say that in the month of December, 1848, or January 1849, I happened to meet Horace Dresser, the counsel of S. P. Townsend, and having known him for some time, inquiries were made by him how I was progressing in the manufacture of my Sarsaparilla; and after receiving my answer the conversation was continued on the subject of S. P. Townsend's grievances. Mr. Dresser remarked that S. P. Townsend was immensely rich, and to remove all opposition in the Sarsaparilla business said Townsend would give me one of two or three splendid modern built houses, which he owned up town; and in addition to this would settle upon me a competency for life, or would take me into partnership with him and so engross the whole business of making Sarsaparilla, provided I would join him, said S. P. Townsend, against Thompson, Skillman & Co. That Thompson, Skillman & Co. cared nothing for me but to make money out of me, and would skin me, but that S. P. Townsend would do much more for me than they could or would, as he was abundantly able, and rich, and had power to serve me more than they, thus drawing the comparison between the wealth of S P. Townsend, and the absence of it in Thompson, Skillman & Co. He invited me also to be free with him in my conversation—said that no advantage should be taken of me even should I commit myself, and he therefore asked me to state the circumstances of my connection with Thompson, Skillman & Co. Soon after the above had taken place Mr. Dresser come to my house and resumed the conversation before mentioned of my joining S. P. Townsend and leaving Thompson, Skillman & Co., and earnestly pressed upon me the necessity of accepting his offer, and thus provide myself with a competency during my declining years. About the first of April last Mr. Van Pelt, partner and associate counsel with Horace Dresser, called upon me and said that S. P. Townsend was very rich and would make me very easy in my circumstances, if I would turn and destroy the firm of Thompson, Skillman & Co. He remarked that S. P. Townsend cared not for any amount that might or might not be awarded to his suit with Thompson, Skillman & Co., provided he could get sixpence damages. That that amount would answer his purposes if by it he could destroy the business of Thompson, Skillman & Co. To destroy that firm and the manufacture of Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla was what he had made up his mind to effect, and he was determined to do it by that means or any other. The sale of Old Dr. Townsend's Sarsaparilla was an eye-sore to him, and he was dete mind to break it up. Mr. Van Pelt further remarked that S. P. Townsend's business netted him One Hundred Thousand Dollars the last year, and he was doing more now than he had ever done before. Mr. Van Pelt, by these and other remarks of the like character endeavored to impress upon my mind S. P. Townsend's great consequence, his wealth, his hostility to Thompson, Skillman & Co. and his ability to make me wealthy also, or to crush us all in one common ruin. Mr. Van Pelt had stated the same things to me in substance once before, and wished me to understand that no advantage should be taken of me, even though I might put myself in his power.

At several different times both Horace Dresser and Van Pelt offered me lands, and houses and money, if I would join S. P. Townsend and turn and help crush the firm of Thompson, Skillman & Co. One thousand dollars at a time was offered me in the name of S. P. Townsend—also houses and lands at the same time, in connection with the money, if I would throw my influence and name, and knowledge of making Sarsaparilla in favor of S. P. Townsend, and withdraw them from Thompson, Skillman & Co. Mr. Dresser remarked that suits were commenced against us all, but proceedings might or would be stayed against me personally.

JACOB TOWNSEND.

Sworn before me this 11th day of June, 1849.

C. S. WOODHULL, Mayor.

I, William M. Levis, of the village of Williamsburgh, County of Kings, and State of New York, being duly sworn, do depose and say, that Mr. S. P. Townsend, Proprietor of S. P. Townsend's Sarsaparilla, offered to give me a handsome sum of money, a sum which I considered at the lowest one thousand dollars, (from the language he used to me) if I would disclose to him a knowledge of the Recipe for manufacturing Old Dr. Jacob Townsend's Sarsaparilla, and further deponent saith not.

WILLIAM M. LEVIS.

ANATOMICAL MUSEUM,
300 BROADWAY.

We had the pleasure a few evenings since of paying a visit to this artistical exhibition, and certainly were much pleased at the beautiful style and new arrangement of the interior, it being now so arranged that gentlemen can visit, accompanied by their ladies and children. Upon entering we were pleased to see the great number of visitors that were busily engaged admiring the beautiful specimens of anatomy that were here displayed; and also that the efforts made by the worthy proprietor to gratify the taste of the scientific, curious, and discerning public were successful, if we may judge the thronged and crowded state of the rooms with visitors as evidences. After looking over and vising the splendid upper saloons, we again descended to the first and mixed with a great number of other visitors, who were listening to the able instructions and explanations of anatomy that were given by Dr. Charles D. Hammond, who attends every evening for the purpose of explaining the various relative parts of anatomy that are here exhibited, and which could not have had a more able or gentlemanly explanator, for with the most superior medical knowledge, he joins a most easy method of conveying instruction, as a great number of his hearers affirm. Is is well worthy a visit at double the price of admittance.—Morning Star.

GRAND NATIONAL ANATOMICAL MUSEUM, NO. 300 BROADWAY,

Nearly opposite the Irving House.

This is the most splendid and varied collection of anatomical figures, models, and parts of the human structure, internal and external, ever exhibited in this country, or any other, to the whole people.

TWO LIFE-LIKE FIGURES, capable of being dissected, so as to show all the muscules and internal viscera to their natural positions, and the full natural size, give to the spectator a perfect idea of the organs and functions of his own body throughout.

A real body of a man, diverted of the skin, and so as to be imperishable, shows all the muscles, the lungs, heart, stomach, liver, and every other part in the natural state and location. It is a remarkable specimen, producing in all beholders wonder and admiration.

PRESERVED OR EMBALMED

EXQUISITE VENUSES,

the size of life, exhibiting the fœtus in utero in sight, draw universal attention, and produce and all-absorbing interest and enthusiasm.

MORE THAN TWO HUNDRED

other specimens of the various and numerous parts and organs of the human body, are exhibited in this Grand Gallery of Anatomical and Physiological Science and Art.

The Organs of Perspiration, Circulation and Digestion.

DISEASES IN ALL ITS FORMS,

whether outward—upon the skin, the scalp the limbs, the eyes, nose, lips, and organs of Reproduction—or inward, upon the brain, the wind-pipe, the lungs, heart, the stomach, liver, bowels, bladder, womb, &c., &c., are all presented in various stages, precisely as they appear in the subject.

Go, and see for yourself the marvels, the malformations, the perfect workmanship of Human Economy, as never before exhibited, and you will say the half was never told you, and cannot be described on paper.

REMEMBER, 300 BROADWAY,

where is shown in all its fullness,

THE GRAND PANORAMA OF MAN AND WOMAN.

The proprietors have so arranged these Rooms, that gentlemen can be accommopanied by their ladies and children, the sexual parts having been removed to a separate room, which may be visited by gentlemen only, except on Wednesdays, from 12 to 4 o'clock, P. M., when Ladies alone are admitted. Ladies then in attendance.

N. B.—DR. HAMMOND attends at the Museum every evening, to explain the various specimens of Anatomy and disease exhibited.

ECLIPSES IN THE YEAR 1851.

There will be two Eclipses of the Sun, and two of the Moon, this year.

I. January 17, Moon eclipsed at the time of Full Moon, in the morning in the United States except the eastern part of Maine, where it will be afternoon. Invisible here, but will be seen in the opposite regions of the globe. Magnitude, 5.58 digits on the Moon's northern limb.

II. February 1, Sun eclipsed at the time of New Moon in the morning, but will be in the evening of Jan. 31, in the states and territories west of the Mississippi river. Invisible in America. The Sun may be seen more or less eclipsed on the southern limb at Australia, the Cape of Good Hope, and the southern part of Madagascar; and on the northern limb, at New Zealand. This Eclipse will be central and annular on the meridian in longitude 98° 22′ east from Greenwich, and latitude 58° 23′ south.

III. July 12, evening, and July 13, morning, Moon eclipsed; visible.

Magnitude, 8.47 digits on the Moon's southern limb.

IV. July 28, morning, Sun eclipsed; visible more or less throughout the United States with the exception of the southern part of Florida: on the Sun's northern limb.

PHRENOLOGICAL ALMANAC.

PROGRESS OF THE AGE.

For the twelfth year, the Phrenological Almanac appears before the public. Like a younger sister of a large and respectable family, she comes forward with a joyous heart, to be presented to that generous public which has received with such a kind embrace, her eleven elder sisters. Now that they are happily disposed of, she makes her best obeisance to the virgin year, 1851, claiming, as her peculiar prerogative, to be the reigning beauty of this year; promising, when her mission is accomplished, to yield her scepter to a younger successor, as her seniors have done.

This little monitor, which marks the progress of years, and the onward march of the man-improving sciences of Phrenology and Physiology, comes to you, kind reader, full of the glad tidings of the past, and of joyous promise for the future.

As one year yields to the encroachments of another, man is approaching his destiny. His genius, not satisfied with past achievements, is continually on the watch-tower of hope, teeming with thought, investigation, and experiment, to gain new laurels. Every new discovery, improvement, and invention, serves only to ripen, expand, and elevate the mind for higher service, and still more important discoveries, all of which tend to make him feel his importance, and lead him to higher sources of enjoyments than those which arise from the animal impulses.

Since the discovery of the science which this annual represents, the thick darkness which surrounded the mind of man has been gradually giving way to light, liberty, and improvement. Steam-boats, rail-roads, taking likenesses by the sun's rays, and conveying news by lightning, have all sprang into existence. Since that time, human nature has greatly advanced in value; life, liberty of body, of thought, and of conscience, have become the great topics of thought, discussion, and legislation. Man, in his various relations, is beginning to be the all-absorbing study, the great thought of the age. The most interesting and profitable lectures given in the country during the past year, have been on the nature, sphere, and duties of man, mentally and physically; and to secure this knowledge every available avenue for investigation has been opened. Physiology, Phrenology, and Magnetism appear at present to be the most direct media of arriving at this knowledge; and, like the greedy miner seeking the golden ore, every step taken increases the eager speed to take the next and the last; so, never has there been a time in the annals of scientific history, when the community at large were more eager to read and listen to instruction on these subjects than now.

This annual, though an unobtrusive laborer, yet it is the entering wedge to many an unprobed mind, and starts the opening process which never becomes less.

These three sciences hold their respective and important relations in this great work of self-investigation. Physiology is at the foundation of the whole, and gives us our a, b, c information of physical wants, and how to supply them, so as to prepare the body to be a fit tenement for the mind, in which to perfect itself. Phrenology takes the next step, and unfolds to man the elements of his mental being, explains their functions and legitimate use, how to adapt the one to the other, and combine the action of all, so as to secure the great ends of his existence. A want of this knowledge leaves him to the gratification of his animal and selfish impulses, as a source of his highest pleasure, while a more thorough knowledge of himself, stimulates him to control his animal propensities, and secure his happiness in the exercise of his higher faculties.

The teachings of these sciences are, obedience to nature's laws; a full and harmonious development of all man's powers and functions, and such a use of them as will secure his own happiness and that of those over whom he exerts an influence, without which, the Gospel of Christ, even, can not take its full effect, and do its perfect work

WILLIAM WIRT.

William Wirt had a very large head, and a temperament of unusual warmth and activity, which stimulated the mind to a high degree of ease and energy of action. The vital and mental predominated over the motive or muscular, giving vivacity, sprightliness, zeal, and impulsiveness, rather than strength and endurance. Less susceptibility of mind and body, and more of plodding, cool perseverance would have enabled him to hold out longer, but would have made him less captivating in his talents, and perhaps less useful.

His social organs were very large, imparting the most deep-toned and tender affection. The domestic circle was the shrine around which his warmest sensibilities clustered.

Approbativeness was a leading element of his mind, combined with full Self-Esteem, making him keenly alive to the approbation of the good and wise; but, though lofty, his was a noble ambition.

Conscientiousness and Hope were large, and his moral integrity was without a blemish. His whole life was one of sparkling cheerfulness; under the severest trials his hope was undimmed. Firmness is seen to be large, and perseverance worthy of imitation marked his whole course of life and labor. His Approbativeness spurred him to seek for distinction, Hope promised success, no difficulties could crush his spirit, while Firmness and energy successfully aided his intellect in achieving an honorable standing among men.

WILLIAM WIRT.

His head from the ears forward was long and high, showing a very large development of the perceptive and reasoning organs, with a high degree of Benevolence, Imitation, Ideality, and Mirthfulness; hence few men were more capable of gathering facts, and of observing the phenomena of nature on which to base just and intellectual conclusions, and enable him to spice his discourses with a high degree of wit and ornament. His memory was very tenacious, retaining with great clearness the impressions which the mind received, and holding them in reserve for all occasions when they might serve his purpose. Causality was amply developed, while Comparison appears to have been still larger, as seen in the height, width, and prominence of the upper part of the forehead, which gave an analytical and logical cast of mind. His Language, as seen by the fullness of the eye, was really immense, which, joined with strong and active intellect, Mirthfulness, and Ideality, imparted eloquence, copiousness, and felicity of expression rarely equaled.

Benevolence very large, which, united with his affectionate sympathies, made him generous and hospitable in an eminent degree, kind and conciliatory in all his intercourse with the world, even to opponents in the strife of debate, and as gentle and tender as a child whenever the deep fountain of his affections was stirred.

MENTAL ORGANIZATION.

The portrait of Fanny Forrester, wife of the Rev. Dr. Judson, shows an exquisite organization. It is the feeling, sentimental, exalted temperament, and, with such mental developments, always imparts purity, sweetness, devotion, exquisiteness, susceptibility, loveliness, and great moral worth. Intellect, Mirthfulness, Ideality, Spirituality, Benevolence, Hope, Conscientiousness, Approbativeness, and all the social organs, are very large, and there is a freshness, beauty, wit, purity, and an ardent gushing affection in her prose and poetry seldom equaled, which makes all who read the sparkling productions of her pen wiser, and happier, and better. "Alderbrook" is the title of a collection of her writings.

Calculation Small.

Calculation Large.

The organ of Calculation is adapted to numbering, or arithmetic, and aids in the successful prosecution of the study of the mathematics. The higher branches of mathematics depend less on this than upon other faculties. Buxton excelled in arithmetic and mathematics, while Combe never could learn the multiplication table, yet was not deficient in mathematical ability. Zerah Colburn, who astonished the world by his arithmetical power, did not succeed in mathematics, nor in any other intellectual effort. T. H. Safford, the extraordinary boy of Vermont, is a genius in arithmetic and mathematics, as well as in all other studies. His intellectual organs are all large, while those of Colburn, excepting Calculation, were moderate. The negro slave near Huntsville, Alabama, who was so idiotic as not to be able to do the ordinary work of a slave, nor had he received any education except to count a hundred, yet he exhibited most wonderful calculating power, surpassing all the professors of arithmetic in the land. He could readily multiply five or six figures by an equal number in the head, and yet did not even know the figures when written.

MEMORY.

It is of the first importance to have a good memory; and all who are conscious of any defect in this respect should cultivate it by a vigorous exercise of it. Many who start in life with a good memory, lose its power by allowing it nothing to do. Others who are badly stocked with it, by careful and persevering effort to remember, greatly increase the size of the organ and activity of the faculty.

Eventuality Large.

Eventuality Small.

In the above portraits, the center of the forehead of one is seen to be full and rounded, while that of the other is decidedly deficient; hence one has a good memory of facts, historical events, the lessons of personal experience, and can readily command what he knows; while the other has a confused or weak memory, may acquire knowledge, but will not retain it

One remembers results of study, and is able at all times to apply them to practical life; the other retains the principle, and is obliged to solve the problem whenever he would apply them. The memory of one is like the ready coin; that of the other like the raw ore, or gold in the bar.

EDGAR ALLAN POE.

THIS gifted son of genius and misfortune died at Baltimore, in October, 1849, aged thirty-seven. His phrenological developments, combined with the fiery intensity of his temperament, serve to explain many of the eccentricities of this remarkable man. His mother was an actress of great merit, and he inherited from her strongly developed and highly excited faculties, an unusual degree of intellect, Idenlity, Sublimity; Spirituality, and Language. We mean that he inherited in sublimated embodiment all of ORGANIZATION that his mother possessed, together with all that unearthly intensity and ethereality which her profession as an actress awakened. Left an orphan at an early day, and being constitutionally averse to restraint, and surrounded as he was by associates ill adapted to moderate and mold the wild enthusiasm of his nature, he released himself from the control and roof of his foster-father, Mr. Allan, and boldly shot off in a tangent, gleaming like a meteor in the heavens, to delight and amaze, attract or astonish. Such was he in social life and in the world of letters. Ambitious, sensitive, and critical in a high degree, he found himself surrounded by those who could neither understand his nature, appreciate his talents, nor sympathize with his erratic spirit. The wine-cup was the bane of his being, and brought out the worst phases of his character; and although his friends claim that this one fault was the procurer of all his waywardness and gained him all his enemies, yet we believe that, artificial excitement aside, he was from the very nature of his organization a wandering star, which could be confined to no orbit and limited to no constellation in the empire of mind. The melancholy tendency of his mind was heightened by the loss of his earliest object of adoration, and "Leonore" was the burden of every sigh, as "Mary" was to Scotia's sweetest bard. Poverty and dissipation soured his nature, and he reversed his heat and light against the world to scathe and blight what, under more favorable auspices, he might have illuminated and warmed to a happy assimilation to himself.

His writings have been collated by N. P. Willis, J. R. Lowell, and R. W. Griswold, and published in two volumes, with a beautiful likeness, by J. S. Redfield, New York, for the benefit of his wife's mother, Mrs. Clemm, who, in the deepest poverty and most devoted affection, followed, like a guardian angel, the unfortunate bard to the last.

DEMPSTER.

This distinguished vocalist possesses a warm, susceptible temperament, one that gives intense feeling, impulse, and the song-loving disposition. He has such an amount of vital-mental activity, as to give unusual pathos; such a poetical and eloquent tone of mind and feeling, as to carry captive every susceptible mind. He weeps when he sings that which embodies sympathy and tenderness, and melts his auditors to tears.

His phrenological developments are in harmony with his temperament. He has strong social feelings; as a friend he is warm-hearted. Benevolence is large, giving kindness, sympathy for suffering, and joined with large Amativeness, and social organs, imparts a convivial, hospitable, entertaining, polite and friendly character. Order, Tune, Comparison, and Language, combined with the above developments and a general smoothness of organization, give him his peculiar talents as a singer.

MORAL AND ANIMAL CONTRASTED.

REV. DR. TYNG.

BLACK HAWK.

IN the portrait of Dr. Tyng, we see great elevation and expansion of the top-head and forehead, in the regions of the moral and intellectual organs. Such a development indicates a high order of talent, and an earnest regard for things sacred and religious; elevate man above law, by making him "a law unto himself." Such men naturally purify and refine society, and the strength of their character will always be on the side of justice, intelligence, and virtue.

In the portrait of the Indian chief we discover a large development of the side-head, with less general fullness of the top-head, showing great strength of animal feeling, severity, and cruelty, with a powerful will, and less Conscientiousness, Benevolence, and Spirituality. In this we perceive the elements of savage life, viz., animal vigor, coarseness of organization, and a low tone of character.

STEPHEN GIRARD.

THIS distinguished man was known as one of the most wealthy men in the United States, and as the founder of the college which bears his name. He began the world with no property, and by economy, business talent, and perseverance, accumulated millions. He is by many regarded as having been a Shylock in disposition; and although many penurious and selfish acts marred his business career, yet he was by no means destitute of sympathy and fellow-feeling, as a single fact will illustrate.

During the prevalence of yellow-fever in Philadelphia, when people were dying by thousands, and few were found to aid the sick or bury the dead, Mr. Girard suspended business, and devoted himself for many entire weeks, night and day, to nursing the sick, and has alone carried a corpse on his back from the death-bed, to the dead-cart. Other noble acts are related of him, and whether the gift of a college, which bears his name, when he could no longer enjoy his money, was an instance of benevolence, may be decided by each reader for himself.

STEPHEN GIRARD

He had a firm organization, a large and active brain, a well-balanced intellect, great system and method, a good memory, well-balanced business judgment, large Cautiousness, and strong perceptive intellect, which, with large reasoning organs, gave excellent judgment of property, and talent to perceive what property would rise, and how to invest his money, so that it would accumulate. His judgment of men was rarely surpassed. The moral organs in his head were fairly developed.

SIR JOHN FRANKLIN.

Sir John Franklin's portrait shows a large head, with an ardent, active, enduring temperament, and a high development of moral and intellectual power, combined with strong hope, perseverance, self-reliance, ambition, and judgment. He has the head of a philosopher, engineer, and philanthropist, and is well qualified to lead in comprehensive and daring enterprises.

For the last four years, the civilized world have had their eyes and hopes directed to his efforts to accomplish the long-desired project of effecting a Northwest passage from the Atlantic to the Pacific; and although expedition after expedition has been sent out in search of Sir John, and all the northern whale-marine have been stimulated by patriotism, enterprise, and liberal offers of reward by the British government, and by the wife of the bold pioneer, yet no tidings of a reliable character have been received from the expedition; and the commercial world are in a state of painful, and almost breathless anxiety relative to its fate.

Of the numerous exploring expeditions which have left the British shores, from the days of Cook to the present time, few, if any, have excited so much interest as that now shrouded from our view by the icy curtain which clings, for the greater part of the year, around the North Pole. Behind that curtain, Sir John Franklin and the gallant party under his command, disappeared on the 26th July, 1845; since which period no authentic intelligence of them has been received, nor indeed any account at all beyond the rumors of boats, filled with white people, having been seen by Esquimaux in the summer of 1846 to the east of the mouth of the Mackenzie river.

The existence of a Northwest passage has been a favorite dream for centuries. The hope of discovering a shorter passage to India, the original pursuit of Columbus himself, may be regarded as the first incitement to the numerous attempts which have been made by the English, and others, since 1585.

Accordingly, in the early part of 1845, it became known that the intrepid and veteran Sir John Franklin, who had but recently returned from an arduous and anxious service at the antipodes, as Governor of Van Diemen's Land, had been nominated by the British Admiralty to command an expedition for the above object. Little time elapsed before the ships were ready for sailing. They were the EREBUS, Sir John Franklin, captain, with seventy officers and men, and the TERROR, Francis Rawdon M. Crozier, captain, with sixty-eight men. On the 26th day of May the expedition departed.

In May, 1850, the clairvoyants who were connected with the famous "spiritual knockings," professed to have been informed, that Sir John Franklin had been taken a prisoner on the island of Japan, and although he had received hard treatment, was still alive, and was about seventy miles from Jeddo. The anxious world would be glad to learn that their prediction was founded on truth, for the general fear is that he and his party with their ships are in the deep ocean buried.

PROGRESS OF THE PUBLIC SENTIMENT RELATIVE TO PHRENOLOGY

To those who labor to disseminate the doctrines of Phrenology among their countrymen, it is a source of the highest gratification to witness the positive evidence, on all hands exemplified, of the onward progress of the science. There is a growing desire on the part of the people to read all that is written on the subject; to sustain lectures; to obtain examinations with a view to appropriate business; partnerships, commercial and matrimonial; and to gain proper instruction relative to the training of children, and self-improvement. The lectures of the American Phrenological Society, at Clinton Hall, New York, during the last winter were highly popular, and attracted overwhelming audiences of highly intelligent listeners, and in some instances thousands were obliged to go away, while the large hall was densely crowded, and every avenue leading to it was filled with persons eager to find a place to STAND and hear the truth.

Societies of similar character are being formed all over the country, and the most cheering reports salute us of their healthful progress. To facilitate the advancement and permanent prosperity of these societies, we have selected forty of our best specimens of busts and casts, as the commencement of a cabinet for their use, and furnish them at the bare cost of making. Many societies have availed themselves of this rare opportunity, and we apprehend great good to the societies from the careful study which these specimens merit

SARAH KINSON, OR MARGRU.

This girl, one of the Amistad captives, called in her native language Margru, meaning black snake, called at our office for an examination, while a stranger to us. She was described as possessing strong friendship, independence, perseverance, energy, and unusual intellectual powers; remarkable memory, and the faculty of acquiring education. We afterward learned that she had been educated at the Oberlin Institute, in Ohio, and excelled in all branches of study, and was one of the first scholars in the institution in mathematics and superior sciences; remarkable for memory and native intelligence. She has gone to her native land as a missionary. The forehead is broad and high, and particularly prominent in the center, in the region of Eventuality, and the whole head is large, sustained by a vigorous constitution. She is far superior to Africans generally. The same is true of the majority of the Amistad captives, particularly so of Cinquez, the leader. Dignity, independence, and scope of mind, were such as to do honor to individuals of any nation.

LORENZO DOW.

FEW men have made so distinct a mark, and run so eccentric a course as Lorenzo Dow. Possessed of an active, enduring temperament, and talents of no common order, with a total disregard of the conventional rules of society, he attracted crowds to listen to his ministrations wherever he went. Many traditions are given of him which indicate the keenness of his intuitive sagacity in reading the character and motives of men, and his power to rule them; also that he had great memory, wit, presence of mind, tact, and shrewdness. Self-Esteem and Firmness were large, which enabled him to rise above the fashions and customs of life, and to sustain himself in his eccentric course. Some called him crazy, others regarded him as possessed with an evil spirit, and his whole course was an enigma. The middle line of his head shows every organ to be large, from Individuality to Philoprogenitiveness. Hence, he was a close observer, had a retentive memory, criticism, analysis, intuition, sympathy, reverence, perseverance, independence, concentrativeness, and large social organs. The moral and intellectual powers predominated in his organization, and doubtless in his character. He was certainly a shrewd man, and although extremely eccentric, yet he had great command over men, and exerted a wide sphere of influence.

AMARIAH BRIGHAM, M.D.

Doctor Brigham was a public benefactor. His sphere was uninviting to most minds, yet it is a high duty to treat and manage the insane, and the hero who discharges duty in such a department, is more worthy of enduring laurels in the memory of man, than he who strews the battle-field with the slain. For years he was at the head of the Insane Retreat at Hartford, and subsequently of the New York State Lunatic Asylum at Utica, where he died in the autumn of 1849, aged fifty-one.

His character was distinctly marked by strong social feeling, friendship, and affection; by firmness, perseverance, and tenacity of will, fortitude and efficiency, sympathy and philanthropy, love of justice, application and originality of intellect. His labors and self-denial for the insane will be gratefully remembered in future ages by every lover of man. His was a noble ambition, and he has reared for himself an imperishable monument, which will be fresh long after the walls of the New York State Lunatic Asylum shall have crumbled to ruin.

A public sentiment in which dishonesty is not disgraceful; in which bad men are respectable, are trusted, are honored and exalted, is a curse to the young.

There are three companions with whom a man should always keep on good terms: his wife, his stomach, and his conscience.

A PEEP AT THE PHRENOLOGICAL CABINET.

Not a few of our friends have looked in upon us, with benevolent, joyous faces, and given us a grasp of their generous hands, but perchance many friends, far away, would be pleased with a flying sketch of this place of skulls, busts, portraits, books, busy hands, and laboring brains. Two long stores in Clinton Hall—one filled with books, counters, and desks; the other with a large cabinet of skulls, busts, etc., and a quiet office in the rear, devoted to phrenological examinations—defines our area and the sphere of our operations. But our little community of OPERATORS demands more especially our present attention.

First, then, engaged in the professional department, are O. S. FOWLER, L. N. FOWLER, and NELSON SIZER, one of whom may always be found in attendance, to apply the principles of Phrenology and Physiology to the development of character. Attached to this department is C. J. HAMBLETON, our phonographic reporter, who takes verbatim reports of characters from the lips of the examiner, and writes them out in full. This feature of our business is rapidly increasing, and we look forward to the time when this shall be the principal method of recording examinations. Mr. S. R. WELLS has the charge of the business department, publishing, correspondence, etc., and is assisted by his brother, R. D. WELLS. Mr. N. HOUGHTON, a man of years and experience, formerly a merchant of Boston, has the charge of the book-keeping. J. Brown, Jr., a student and assistant; A. Brackett, retail clerk. James Oliver, our packer and porter, fills an important place; and Francis W. Dempsey, counter-clerk, and errand, bank, and post-office boy, with modest bearing, active habits, and "general usefulness," must not be forgotten. The world MAY hear of him in another form than this—who knows?

In the publication office, in which is a world of care and chirography, is Mrs. Charlotte F. Wells, who has been connected with the establishment from the beginning; Miss Mary S. Rich, of New York; Miss Julia B. Clarke, late of Oswego, N. Y.; and Miss Sarah Moran, of New York. In this department the Journals' books are kept, and the mailing done. The mailing of 20,000 copies of the "Phrenological," 18,000 of the "Water-Cure Journal," and 5000 of the "Student," MONTHLY, besides numerous daily mail orders for books, requires no small share of patient, persevering labor.

If, to do all this labor—to edit the Journals, write books, publish and sell more than 45,000,000 of pages, deliver 350 public lectures, examine 10,000 heads, write 1200 characters, of eight or ten pages each, besides teaching private classes, and a world of attention which families and friends require—is not business enough to keep our troop of fifteen persons busily engaged, FOR ONE YEAR, and earn for them a reputation for industry, we know of no place or avocation which can do it.

Outside of this, and connected directly with this enterprise, the stereotype establishment of Messrs. Baker and Palmer, of twenty men, devote no small portion of their energies, besides Mr. Howland, our engraver, several power printing-presses, running constantly, besides bookbinders, etc., etc., make up the list.

THERE, friends in Canada, the universal Yankee nation, and "the rest of mankind,"—you have an inkling of who we are, and how we keep ourselves from idleness. "For further particulars," call and see. We are always "at home," and rejoiced to see our friends from ALL OVER THE WORLD

CAPTAIN KNIGHT.

THE captain of the packet ship "New World," enjoys a world-wide reputation for activity, sprightliness, enterprise, daring, impetuousness, promptness, and judgment; earnestness of execution, affability, generosity, dignity and presence of mind, with strong social and moral feelings. This temperament brings out all the mind and character, with sprightliness, versatility, and uncommon industry, and makes men useful and available. Such men are apt to over-do, to wear out, rather than to rust out; are whole-souled, manly, positive, absolute, like and dislike strongly, are extravagant in their ideas, take large views of things, do business on a large scale, and drive every thing. Make or break, are wide awake, zealous, quick to think and feel, decide on men and things intuitively, can not be inferior, commonplace, or tame, and make a decided mark in the world. Their influence is always felt, whether they take a virtuous or vicious course. Such persons require right education in early life, that their powers may have a wide and noble field of action.

PHRENOLOGICAL SOCIETIES

ARE being formed by lecturers in the larger towns, and not a few have arisen, as it were, spontaneously among the people; and collections or cabinets of specimens are being gathered all over the land. May they become as numerous, at least, as post-offices; their intellectual and moral effects will be most potent in the elevation of the race, especially through the education of the young.

CHARLES XII., KING OF SWEDEN.

This head is higher than it is broad; very high in the region of Hope, Firmness, and Self-Esteem. Secretiveness and Cautiousness are extremely small. This is the organization of an impudent, proud, and stubborn character. He was remarkable for fortitude, resolution, rashness, enterprise, and imprudence. In battle, he was ferocious, and wholly destitute of common prudence; as a ruler, haughty and tyrannical, and inflexible and irascible under opposition, yet humane in his disposition when not provoked. Such an organization should never be at the head of government, but be under the control of other and more judicious minds. Hereditary rulers are liable to be ill adapted to the duty of government; hence, an elective, is the only philosophical system of government; because, then, intellectual and moral qualities, with prudence, forbearance, and general balance of character can be selected in the ruler.

PHRENOLOGICAL STATISTICS.

During the past year the noble car of science has made rapid, and we trust enduring progress; and its number of passengers are neither few nor obscure.

Phrenological and physiological reading matter is sought and read with avidity. In 1849 we published and distributed more than forty-five millions of pages, and the demand is still increasing. The American Phrenological Society, established in 1849, held its first annual course of lectures at Clinton Hall, New York, commencing the first week in January. The first lecture was given by Nelson Sizer, of New York, on the "History, Progress, and Prospects of Phrenology;" the second, by Rev. John Pierpont, of Troy, N. Y., on "Phrenology and the Scriptures." The course was continued by Dr. Elder, of Philadelphia; Rev. William H. Channing, Parke Godwin, Esq., Hon. Horace Greeley, Charles A. Dana, Esq., and Professor Syme, of New York. These lectures were very fully attended, and the doctrines taught of an eminently reformatory, dignified, and instructive character. We anticipate large results from the lectures and labors of this society. It is hoped that the friends of science every where will contribute skulls, drawings, and busts to its cabinet. As this is a beneficent movement, it is desired that such contributions shall be numerous and varied, and as nearly free as possible.

John Augustus

Few men have shown more benevolence than John Augustus,* in being surety for the unfortunate who had become amenable to the law for minor offenses committed while in a state of intoxication. His example proves that kindness is not lost upon the fallen, and that it is the true way of reforming the wayward. A few such men would demolish prisons and the gallows, flogging in the army and navy, and establish the triumph of moral power over physical force. O. S. and L. N. Fowler, two years since, in Boston, examined his head, each in the absence of the other, without the slightest knowledge of his name and character; and both gave Benevolence, Firmness, and Philoprogenitiveness as his ruling traits.

"In Franklin avenue, near Court street, in the city of Boston, is the shoemaker's shop of an elderly, thin-faced man, of medium stature, who, during a few years past, has, by the most valid of all credentials—good deeds wrought in earnest—proved himself a genuine philanthropist. I re-

* We are indebted to the kindness of Mr. Bela Marsh, of Boston, for the above likeness, and to the "Sketches of Eminent Shoemakers" for the account of Mr. Augustus.

fer to JOHN AUGUSTUS, who is now well known and highly esteemed in the city where he resides, and likewise celebrated, to some extent, throughout New England. His munificence is not of the ostentatious sort; it does not consist of patronage bestowed upon institutions already endowed with wealth. He is not found > 'Among your ten and twenty pound subscribers,

> Your benefactors in the newspapers.'

But his benevolence glides noiselessly along its way, like the calmly flowing river that irrigates the soil, and where unseen is traced by the livelier verdure that marks its winding course.

"The reader will learn the distinctive character and value of this worthy man's humble philanthropic labors, from extracts of a letter addressed by him to one of the officers of the Massachusetts Legislative Temperance Society, in 1846:

"'BOSTON, February 2, 1846.

"'DEAR SIR: It would be gratifying to me, if you would in some way introduce into the meeting of the Legislative Temperance Society the subject of establishing a temporary home for persons discharged from the House of Correction, and where they have been confined for being common drunkards; and also for persons of that description who may not have been sentenced to that place. Of those who are discharged from prison many might be saved, if we had a place where we could keep them for a few days, until employment could be found for them. . . . . .

At present, a poor unfortunate woman, of intemperate habits, is taken from her family, and sent to the House of Correction; and before she comes out, her family is scattered, and she knows not where to find her friends, or perhaps her children. She has nowhere to lay her head, unless she seeks shelter in some den or some back lane about Ann street. There she gets drunk, and gets sent back to the House of Correction, perhaps, in two or three days; and it is the same with the men. Eight tenths of all that go to the House of Correction are for drunkenness.

"'As soon as my attention was called to the subject, which was by accident, I thought I would try an experiment, by standing bail for a man who was found guilty of being a common drunkard. I was in court, and stepped up to him, and asked if he would sign the pledge, if I would get his sentence put off for a fortnight, and stand his bail, in order to give him a chance to try to do better. He agreed to do so, kept the pledge, and became a sober man. At the end of the fortnight he was let off, upon payment of a small fine. I continued this practice, and the result is as follows: From January 1st, 1842, to January 1st, 1846, I bailed three hundred persons brought up as common drunkards, male and female. Of this number, more than two hundred have done well. The balance might have been saved, if there had been a place for them to stop a few days, to recover from the effects of rum, and wait for employment. I do not know how many of them fall back, because I lost the track of them. I have heard that some are doing well in other places. I have also been bail in cases of simple drunkenness, and other petty offenses, to the number of one hundred; making in all four hundred instances. The whole sum for which I have been bail is $25,000, and have only suffered one forfeiture, which was for $100. Of the three hundred common drunkards, two hundred and seventy-five were, after signing the pledge, and being under probation a week or two, discharged upon paying a fine of one cent and costs—about $4 dollars in each case; making in all $1100 paid into the treasury of the county or state. If they had been sent to the House of Correction, nothing would have been paid on their account; and the officers would have been paid fees for carrying them over. * * * * * * * * * * *

The success of my personal experiment shows that the drunkard can be saved. The time has, therefore, come to try it on a more extended scale, by the aid of the state, which is to be benefited as well as the drunkard. Let us, instead of degrading him by disgraceful punishment, build him up, and restore him to his station in society, that he may provide for his family, and particularly his children, who otherwise may become vagabonds, thieves, and curses to the community. I might say much on this head, but I am afraid it might be tiresome to you, as you already understand the whole matter. Use this as you think best; and I hope you will speak out about it, when and where you think it will do most good.

"'Yours, respectfully, JOHN AUGUSTUS.'"

LECTURERS IN THE FIELD.

The lecturers connected with our office are O. S. Fowler, L. N. Fowler, and Nelson Sizer, who, in their labors for the year past, have been in Illinois, Wisconsin, Michigan, Western New York, Vermont, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, and Ohio, besides several courses of lectures in New York and the adjacent cities. Our invitations to visit different parts of the country are much more numerous than we can possibly fill. Every where intense interest is manifested in the science, and the work goes bravely on. This harvest of labor and usefulness is great, and the laborers few; among whom we name P. L. Bukll, H. Wisner, C. Townsend, H. B. Gibbons, A. F. Andrews, D. P. Butler, and J. Brown, Jr.

PHRENOLOGICAL CLASSES

Are a valuable means of sowing the seeds of Phrenology. That practical knowledge which a course of private lessons is so well adapted to impart should be given every where in connection with a course of public lectures. New York classes raise up an army of fellow-laborers and domestic missionaries, whose influence is at all times felt for good. We hope lecturers will form classes wherever they go, and they will thus raise up a cloud of witnesses for the good cause.

WILLIAM BLAKE.

Mr. Blake is a large man, well proportioned, with a predominance of the vital temperament, but is not defective in the motive or mental; he is consequently fond of active life, without its extremes or severities. His organization indicates long life, a good constitution, and healthy action of body and mind.

He has a large brain, which, combined with his temperament, would indicate a sound, strong, comprehensive mind; one not so active, excitable, and irregular in development, as steady, firm, and straightforward.

His phrenological developments are distinct, and singularly combined. His character is more even than that of most men with so uneven a head. The controlling organs of his head—those by nature having the most influence—are all large, while the stimulating faculties are all comparatively weak; his head is high, narrow, and long.

Individuality, Locality, and Comparison are very large, and form the strongest features of his intellect. These, joined with his large Form, Size, Order, Calculation, and Eventuality, give him unusual powers of observation, and disposition to study into the quality, condition, relation, and use of things.

In addition to the above qualities, he has large Concentrativeness and Self-Esteem, and very large Firmness, giving great powers of application, continuity of thought, independence of action, self-reliance, and unusual perseverance, and general stability of character and purpose. These, combined with his intellectual faculties, give the most desirable combination to enable him to discover, combine, and perfect. Comparing his developments with what he has done—the discovery he has made—we consider his case a strong proof in favor of the science of Phrenology.

The following will explain the importance of his patent, as estimated by others:

"Blake's Patent Fire-proof Paint.—This discovery of Mr. Blake seems ere long destined to produce an entire change in the mode of covering the exterior of our dwellings, or of all structures liable to decay by the action of the atmosphere, or destruction by fire. It is composed of silica, alumina, protoxyd of iron, magnesia, lime, and carbon, all of which, after being reduced to powder, mixed with oil, and spread, harmonize and combine in their natural state, forming a complete stone or slate coating, impervious to the action of the weather or fire. Imagine the value of a paint that can be used with as much facility as ordinary paints, and at about two thirds its cost, which, instead of turning back to powder and washing off, as the action of the atmosphere destroys the oil, will turn to slate, presenting a complete sheet of stone, or coat of mail, over the whole building, bidding defiance to the elements. This paint has now been tested beyond the possibility of a doubt, as we have seen the testimony of more than twenty of the first men in Ohio, in the vicinity of the mine, who state that they have examined a building that was painted with it by Mr. Blake, six years since, as an experiment. The coating is now a perfect slate or stone, and time and the elements seem to have no effect except to indurate and consolidate the substance. We have also seen a publication of all the insurance companies of Akron, Ohio, where the character of the paint is best known, who state that they will insure buildings well covered with this paint at a much lower premium than those covered with tin or zinc, as it has been tested there in several fires, and considered a better fire-proof. The Fair of the American Institute awarded Mr. Blake a medal, and the examining committee stated that, in their opinion, it was superior to any thing that had been presented as a fire and water-proof covering. The government has granted him a patent. This paint has become so popular that it has excited the cupidity of hundreds of individuals, who have been and are getting up all kinds of imitations."—NEW YORK TRIBUNE.

"BLAKE'S PATENT FIRE-PROOF PAINT.—We last season procured a sufficiency of this most singular and valuable article to cover the roof of the Sun Building, and now find that it proves all that was said of it, as there is not a check or crack to be seen, but is now one continued sheet of stone over the whole roof; and the tread upon it does not seem to affect it, although it is upon tin. The roof leaked badly before it was applied, but has been perfectly tight since. The genuine article can be found at the general depot, 84 Pearl Street, by Wm. Blake, the patentee"—N. Y. SUN.

Many persons who are engaged in endeavoring to sell fire-proof paint, contend that Mr. Blake's patent is not valid, and that any one has a right to manufacture and sell the article. We have seen a decision made a few days since, by the Hon. C. Ellis and C. M. Keller, attorneys-at-law in this city, to whom the parties had referred it to get the decision as to its VALIDITY. Those referees, after a careful examination, concurred in the opinion that the patent was VALID, and at the close of their decision, say:

"We are, therefore, clearly of the opinion, that Mr. Blake's letters patent are VALID, and that any one who prepares this earth in any manner substantially similar to the mode described, and applies it to any of the purposes enumerated in his patent, is liable to him for any damages which he may sustain, which damages he can recover at Law.

"C. M. KELLER,
"New York, May 21, 1850." CHESSELDEN ELLIS, } Referees.

The patent has also been referred to the Hon. Daniel Webster, to obtain his opinion of its VALIDITY; and he has, after a thorough examination, closed his opinion as follows:

"I have no doubt whatever, that Mr. Blake's patent is good and valid; that it protects him in the sole PREPARING, making, using, and selling this artificial slate, or this hard paint; and any person who shall make, prepare, sell, or use this article, or any article formed essentially from the same materials, and by substantially the same manner of preparation and treatment, is liable to him for an infringement of his right, and answerable in damages, according to the provisions of the patent laws of the United States.

"Washington, May 25, 1850. DANIEL WEBSTER."

The public, therefore, to be safe, should see that Mr. Blake's brand is on every package; for if they get the powder from others, that will make the genuine fire-proof paint, they make themselves liable to a prosecution for an infringement of his patent, and if a counterfeit, they of course lose their money. The genuine article can be obtained of the patentee, William Blake, at the general depot, 84 Pearl Street, New York.

KINDNESS AND CRUELTY CONTRASTED.

A vicious ox will set a whole yard of cattle goring each other, down to the hornless calf, which will vent his excited wrath on the cosset-sheep or a simple turkey-gobbler. The leader of a file of mules, a mile in length, is stung by a fly in the flank; he kicks the shins of his follower, who rape the one behind him, and so it goes to the end of the cavalcade. Each kicks his successor because he feels the smart from his predecessor's heels. That same vicious ox might set the whole tribe caressing each other, by simply reaching forth his own tongue, and commencing the work of amiable kindness. There are few animals which may not be subdued to man's will and wishes by kind treatment. "The elephant, with a gentle hand, may be led by a hair."

Men and children have feelings similar to those of the ox, mule, and calf, which may be aroused or allayed in like manner.

"John, you lump of laziness, go to work!" makes John feel sour, lessens his hope of pleasing, lowers his self-respect, awakens a spirit of opposition, and John becomes an eye-servant—a kind of unwilling cart-horse in the performance of his duties.

"Come, John, let the work go ahead; you are the boy to make it fly," awakens the ambition of John; makes him feel that he is appreciated as being capable of doing right; although he feels lazy, yet it does not seem to be known; he is said to be able to do well, and he feels encouraged to keep up his reputation; his hope is inspired; his love of pleasing and kind feeling is awakened; and he leaps into his business with a right good-will, and by habit becomes industrious, and by kind treatment obliging.

"Frank, you villain, what did you do that for? you are perfectly hateful; I'll flog you smartly if you repeat it," touches Frank's pride, and awakens his anger. He knows he is noisy and playful, but he is not conscious of any villainous intention, and did not mean to be hateful. He feels slandered, and consequently indignant; and the threatened flogging, which is to disgrace him, he regards as unjust, and he resolves to fight his way through. He feels that the treatment is humiliating and cruel, and he loses his self-respect and ambition to do well; becomes quarrelsome and hateful, and the mother has her hands full.

"Frank, my son, will you play more quietly, and not turn over the chairs? The yard, or the street, is a better place to play horse than the parlor: men drive horses out of doors," convinces the judgment of Frank that his thoughtless roughness and rudeness is out of place in the parlor, and the mother's kind tone of voice evinces no anger, and arouses none in him, and he complies, with alacrity, with the mild and reasonable request.

"There, Sarah, goes another dish, and the milk on the table-cloth and carpet; take that slap in the face, and see if you can mind what you are about," makes Sarah angry, for she tried to be careful; the cup slipped in her little hand. She feels unconscious of intentional wrong; and anger, grief, and wounded sensitiveness make her timid, discouraged, and unhappy. Every time she attempts to handle what will break or spill, excites her fear; and her agitation of mind and trembling hand make her ten times more likely to meet with accidents; and she prefers a tin cup and a seat in the chimney-corner, to nibble a crust and sip her beverage, where neither breaking nor spilling will be mortal sin.

"Sarah, my daughter, don't cry; never mind the cup, the cloth, or the carpet. You did not mean to do it, I am sure, and crying never mends a cup nor cleans a carpet. 'Never cry for spilled milk.' If you will be more careful in the future, as I trust you will try to be, you will avoid all such trouble. There is another cup, and nice milk; wipe off the tears, and be happy again." Sarah smiles through her tears; takes her fresh cup of milk with a firm, confident, courageous, reassured hand; and rejoices in her strength and acquired cautiousness and skill. She is certainly made happier by the kind treatment; and the cup, cloth, and carpet are not more hopelessly damaged than if the child's happy nature had been scarred and defaced by unkindness.

IMPORTANCE OF SLEEP.

We wish we could IMPRESS upon all the vast importance of securing sound and abundant sleep; if so, we should feel that we had done an immense good to our fellow-beings, not merely in preventing insanity, but other diseases also.

We fear that the great praise of early rising has had this bad effect, to make some believe that sleep is of but little consequence. Though it may be well to rise with the sun, or when it is light (not before, however), yet this is of but minor consequence in comparison with retiring early to bed.

"I have always taken care," said the worthy Dr. Holyoke, after he was above one hundred years of age, "to have a full proportion of sleep, which I suppose has contributed to my longevity."

In our opinion, the most frequent and immediate cause of insanity, and the one most important to guard against, is the WANT OF SLEEP.—DR. BRIGHAM.

PHRENOLOGY PROVED BY ITS ENEMIES.

While examining Mr. H. before an audience, I told him he was slow to make up his mind, but when made up he was as firm as the rocks, and immovable; fond of popularity and office; always free to give advice, and tell others how and what to do; but would seldom TAKE advice—would have his own way at all hazard. All his neighbors were perfectly satisfied, and knew it to be true.

Mr. H. replied: "You are wrong. Phrenology is not true. I am quick to make up my mind, and am not set in my way; nor am I forward to give advice, or backward in taking it. You are mistaken, also, with reference to my desiring office and popularity. To prove that you are wrong, I will illustrate. The greatest bargain I ever made was in the purchase of a farm. I always had a great desire to own that particular farm, from a boy; but never expected to, until one day I met the owner of it in the road, and he told me he wished to sell it. My mind was made up in three minutes to buy it. I consulted my friends about it, and they all advised me not to buy it; but my mind was made up, and I took it. So you see you are mistaken. And although I have held office for many years, yet it has always been urged upon me, and I have reluctantly accepted."—Yes.

SILAS WRIGHT.

The organization of this eminent man was remarkable for its powers. The chest was broad and deep, showing unusual vital power and endurance, both mentally and physically. His mental action induced too great a rush of blood to the head, and, joined with a full habit, produced apoplexy, which cut him off in the midst of his life and usefulness.

His head was very large, measuring more than twenty-three inches. These two conditions—a powerful temperament, and a very large head—conferred on him uncommon power, in whatever direction he chose to use it. His social organs were large, and his friendly spirit contributed greatly to his uncommon popularity with all classes and parties.

He was ambitious, yet not haughty; but familiar, plain, and free with all. His energy and Firmness were very strong, Hope and Benevolence large, which imparted enterprise, good cheer, and strong sympathy and kindness. Cautiousness and Secretiveness were very large; hence his unusually prudent, shrewd, and politic manner of speech and action.

His intellectual organs were large, and admirably balanced. He was far seeing, which enabled him to judge correctly, sustained by a mass of facts, which he was capable of using to excellent advantage. He was able, in the senate of the United States, to call out the full strength of the strongest in debate, where he was perfectly self-possessed, quite prepossessing, remarkably fluent, and peculiarly happy in the selection of words and construction of sentences, and was withal rather witty; yet his repartees were admirably sugared over. To say that Phrenology ascribes to him a mighty mind, is but to interpret this science correctly. It points to CAUSALITY as his great intellectual forte, and says that he possessed extraordinary sagacity in adapting ways and means to ends, and striking right while the iron was hot. HUMAN NATURE was very large, and he possessed a quick and correct insight into character; and, with his great AGREEABLENESS, SECRETIVENESS, and BENEVOLENCE, enabled him to adapt himself to men, to please all, and mold them to his liking.

An admirable balance of his bodily and mental forces conferred on him the immense power he wielded, and raised him from obscurity to his high political eminence, and made him deserve the title of THE MODEL SENATOR.

EXPLANATION OF THE SYMBOLICAL HEAD.

An explanation of the engraving which adorns the first page of the cover, embracing the definition of each of the organs, will doubtless be acceptable to our readers, especially to such as are not well versed in Phrenology.

1. AMATIVENESS—Sexual love. Represented in the engraving by Cupid, with his bow.
2. PHILOPROGENITIVENESS — Parental love; fondness for children and pets. A mother fondling her child, with a cat and kittens at her feet.

A. UNION FOR LIFE, or CONNUBIALITY—The pairing instinct; connubial tendency. A clergyman administering the marriage rite.

3. ADHESIVENESS—Friendship; attachment; fraternal love. Two women embracing each other.
4. INHABITIVENESS—Love of home. An old man with his home in sight.
5. CONCENTRATIVENESS, or CONTINUITY—Application, connectedness of thought and feeling. A student poring over his books, and lost to surrounding objects.
6. COMBATIVENESS—Power to defend; overcome; protect; resist; oppose; contend; contradict; and manifest courage. The cock crowing defiance. Two boys in a quarrel—which, however, is a perversion of the faculty.
7. DESTRUCTIVENESS — Executiveness; energy; force; thoroughness. Its perversion leads to cruelty and hatred. A sportsman shooting a deer.

8. ALIMENTIVENESS (back part)—Appetite; sense of hunger; desire for food. A man eating with a right good will.
9. BIBATIVENESS (front part)—Desire to drink; love of water and fluid food. A man drinking, whose bottle and purse dimensions indicate too great freedom in that habit.

10. ACQUISITIVENESS—Regard for property; desire to accumulate. A miser in scant attire, sitting on a bench in a small apartment, with barred door, and small, grated window, counting his money on a table worth twenty-five cents. This is a perverted manifestation of the faculty.
11. SECRETIVENESS — Policy; management; tact; shrewdness; reserve; concealment. A cat watching for mice, and softly creeping from her hiding-place to seize them by surprise.
12. CAUTIOUSNESS—Watchfulness; fear; restraint; solicitude; prudence; sense of danger. A hen surprised by a hawk; her chickens, having been warned, are fleeing for safety.
13. APPROBATIVENESS—Love of pleasing; sense of character; ambition; desire to excel; affability; politeness. An exquisite tipping his beaver to a lady.
14. SELF-ESTEEM — Self-appreciation; pride; desire to command, to take the lead; love of liberty; independence; self-reliance. A proud man, with head erect and a dignified walk; and a haughty peacock.
15. FIRMNESS—Stability; perseverance; decision; positiveness. The mule refusing to go. A pyramid in the distance, as an emblem of stability, and the perseverance requisite to the completion of so great a structure.
16. CONSCIENTIOUSNESS—Sense of justice; duty to God and man; obligation; integrity; truthfulness; faithfulness. A figure of Justice, blindfolded, holding in one hand the sword, as an emblem of justice; in the other the balances, to mete out to all their due, without partiality.
17. HOPE — Anticipation; cheerfulness; buoyancy; enterprise; expectation of future good. A female figure leaning on the anchor, which is an emblem of hope.
18. SPIRITUALITY—Faith; belief; confidence in and perception of the spiritual; love of the new, novel, and wonderful. Moses receiving the tables of stone on Mount Sinai (Exodus, chap. xxiv). The large cut represents the "Witch of Endor" raising Samuel. (See 1 Sam., chap. xxviii.)
19. VENERATION—Devotion; adoration; respect to superiors. A woman at prayer; and a boy bowing to a parson.
20. BENEVOLENCE—Kindness; charity; liberality; sympathy; humanity. A man inviting the widow and orphan to his house.
21. CONSTRUCTIVENESS — Mechanical skill; contrivance; ingenuity. A mason constructing an arch, and machinery operating before him.
22. IDEALITY—Sense of beauty; refinement; perfection; poetry, etc. An artist with his easel and pallet. A harp and a vase of flowers.

B. SUBLIMITY—Sense of the sublime; grand; vast; wild; romantic. The Falls of Niagara, with its rainbow and overhanging rocks.

23. IMITATION—Power to copy; pattern, imitate; conform; mimic. An artist painting a portrait.
24. MIRTHFULNESS—Wit; fun; glee; jocoseness; sense of the ludicrous, absurd, and comical. A child playing the buffoon, with a laughing mask in his hand.
25. INDIVIDUALITY—Observation; desire to see and identify. A lad, not satisfied with what he can see with the naked eye, using the telescope to lengthen the reach of his vision.
26. FORM—Perception and recollection of shape, outline, and countenance.
27. SIZE—Judgment of magnitude; proper tion; parallels; distance and perspective; measuring by the eye. A large and a small apple, as a contrast of size.

27. WEIGHT—Perception of gravity; perpendiculars; power to balance and direct motion and machinery. An actor dancing on a tight-rope, and balancing a rod in his hand.

28. COLOR—Perception and judgment of colors. The rainbow, and a flowering shrub.

29. ORDER—Method; system; arrangement. A tidy housewife using the broom; her cupboard of dishes neatly arranged.

30. CALCULATION—Sense of numbers, and facility in calculating. A sum in arithmetic worked out.

31. LOCALITY—Knowledge of location, and points of compass. A traveler, a guide-board, and a town in the distance.

32. EVENTUALITY—Memory of facts; events; experience. Illustrated by a book of history; a record of facts.

33. TIME—Memory of time; duration; dates; hour of the day. An hour-glass and a watch, as emblems of the passage of time.

34. TUNE—Sense of harmony and melody in music, speech, etc. A lady playing the harp.

35. LANGUAGE—Expression of thought and feeling by means of speech.

36. CAUSALITY—Power to reason, and trace the relations of cause and effect. Newton under the apple-tree, deducing the theory of gravitation from the fall of an apple.

37. COMPARISON—Power to reason by analogy and comparison; to illustrate by similar cases. A chemist in his laboratory analyzing substances.

C. HUMAN NATURE—Perception of motives; character. A man offering his hand confidingly, while the other withholds his, and seems to say, "Let me see who and what you are first."

D. AGREEABLENESS—Pleasantness; suavity; smoothness of expression.

STRANGERS visiting New York, as well as residents, are in the habit of purchasing their own and family dry goods here, and are often perplexed to know where they can best make their selections, and are the least exposed to the too common tricks of trade. In other words, it is a desideratum with them where they can find every article they want, whether rich and elegant, or plain and cheap, and get them at fair and honest prices To such we can say, with confidence, HITCHCOCK & LEADBEATER, 347 Broadway, corner of Leonard Street, nearly opposite the Broadway Tabernacle, keep a very large and general assortment, and sell on the most fair and favorable terms; and an acquaintance of long standing enables us to assure our friends that they will be dealt honestly with there, and are in no danger of being deceived in the quality of their goods, or of unfairness in purchasing them.

MAGNETISM.—There are several magnetic and clairvoyant subjects employed in this and neighboring cities, devoted exclusively and constantly to the examination of diseases, and they are gaining confidence with the people. Success to them. Many wonderful cures have been performed through their means.

WATER-CURE establishments are also multiplying in the city. There are five or more permanent establishments in the city, where patients are received and physicians are consulted for water-treatment.

THE PHRENOLOGICAL BUST.

THE Phrenological Bust, or model head, is the most perfect aid to a thorough knowledge of practical Phrenology which can possibly be given. On one side the groups or classes of organs are shown, and on the other all the organs are correctly mapped out and neatly labeled with the names, so that their location and relative position can be learned in a few days. By placing the bust before you, all the organs upon the living head can readily be found; and with such knowledge of the function of each organ as can be obtained from a single volume, any person of ordinary intelligence can become sufficiently expert in Phrenology to pronounce without hesitation upon the outline of the character of a stranger.

We regard the bust as one of the essential seeds of Phrenology. Wherever we find it, we find even children intelligent on the subject. The bust has been made expressly for the people; for youth to learn the science from, especially that practical knowledge so eminently necessary to a quick and correct judgment of the characters of strangers almost at sight. To mothers and teachers it is invaluable, as it gives them the surest and quickest mode of learning the real elements of the character of their children, enabling them to understand and apply the preventives to vicious feelings and conduct before they shall have been led astray and formed bad habits.

Phrenology appeals to mothers in the strongest terms. To them it is a guiding-star to the proper training of the young mind. The bust is to Phrenology what the map is to the study of geography. The day is not distant when we shall expect to find one in every family, and every child as familiar with the geography of the head as with that of the United States. Besides the positive advantages which will accrue to the student, it will soon be regarded as disreputable to be ignorant of the practical part of Phrenology. The bust is THE VERY MEANS to aid in bringing about this desirable acquisition; and, aside from its usefulness, it is decidedly ornamental; and being neatly varnished, may be kept as clean as a china pitcher. The engraving shows a front view of the bust, but the organs and groups of organs are too small in the print to admit of the names as they appear on the bust. The cost, including box for packing, is only one dollar and twenty-five cents, and may be safely sent to any part of the world.

PROSPECTUS.

The Water-Cure Journal is published monthly, containing thirty-two octavo pages, illustrated with engravings, exhibiting the Structure, Anatomy, and Physiology of the Human Body, with familiar instructions to learners. It is emphatically a Journal of Health, adapted to all classes, and is designed to be a complete Family Guide, in all cases and in all diseases.

Hydropathy

Will be fully unfolded, and so explained that all may apply it in various diseases, even those not curable by any other means. There is no system so simple, harmless, and universally applicable, as the Water-Cure. Its effects are almost miraculous, and it has already been the means of saving the lives of thousands, who were entirely beyond the reach of all other known remedies.

Philosophy of Health.

This will be fully discussed, including Food, Drinks, Clothing, Air, and Exercise, showing their effects on both body and mind.

Reforms

In all our modes of life will be pointed out, and made so plain that "he that runs may read." We believe fully that man may prolong his life much beyond the number of years usually attained. We propose to show how.

The WATER-CURE JOURNAL

AND

HERALD OF REFORMS.

OFFICE, CLINTON HALL, 131 NASSAU STREET, NEW YORK.

To the Public.

We have obtained the co-operation of the leading Hydropathic writers, in order to present the whole combined talent of the entire profession: and have secured the services of nearly all the medical reformers of the land.

To Practitioners.

This Journal will represent the entire Hydropathic profession. Reports of important cases, and all other matters pertaining to health, will be laid before our readers.

This Journal

Will be published monthly, containing thirty-two large pages of the best matter, with reference to the application of this system, adapted to all classes, on the following

TERMS,

IN ADVANCE:

Single copy one year,	$1 00	Ten copies one year,	7 00
Five copies one year,	4 00	Twenty copies one year,	10 00

PLEASE ADDRESS ALL LETTERS, POST PAID, TO

FOWLERS AND WELLS,

Clinton Hall, 131 Nassau street, New York.

New volumes commence on the first of July and January of each year. Sample numbers sent gratis.

PROSPECTUS.

To Invalids,

No matter of what disease, the principles of Hydropathy may safely be applied, and, in nine cases out of ten, great benefit may be derived therefrom.

To those in Health.

Without health even life is not desirable, unless a remedy can be found. To preserve health no other mode of living can compare with this system. In fact, were its rules observed and carried out, many of our ills would be forever banished, and succeeding generations grow up in all the vigor of true manhood. It will be a part of our duty to teach the world how to preserve health, as well as cure disease.

Water-Cure at Home.

Particular directions will be given for the treatment of ordinary cases at Home, which will enable all, who may have occasion, to apply it without the aid of a physician.

To Women and Mothers.

It is universally conceded by all intelligent practitioners, as well by the old school as the new, that the Water-Cure is not equaled by any other mode of treatment in those peculiar complaints common only to woman. The Journal will contain such advice and instruction as may be considered most important, in all these critical yet unavoidable cases

PROSPECTUS OF THE AMERICAN
PHRENOLOGICAL JOURNAL,
FOR THE YEAR 1851.

To Know Ourselves is a matter of the greatest importance, and there is no other means by which we can acquire this knowledge so well as by the aid of Phrenology. It teaches us for what occupation in life we are by nature best qualified, and in what pursuit we may be most successful.

It is of the utmost importance to Parents and Teachers, as it will unfold the true capacities and dispositions of their children and pupils, and thus enable them the more successfully to govern and instruct them.

It will enable the Physician to understand the causes of insanity, and greatly assist him in restoring his patient.

It will aid Manufacturers in selecting Apprentices best adapted to particular occupations, Merchants in selecting confidential Clerks, Shipmasters in selecting Crews, and, what is of still more importance, will guide us correctly in selecting Congenial Companions for life, and enable us to adapt ourselves to each other, when a difference in dispositions exists.

It is a Powerful Lever in Self-Improvement, in Moral and intellectual advancement.

THE JOURNAL.

Each number will contain the analysis and location of some phrenological faculty, illustrated by an engraving, or an article on their combinations, with instructions to learners.

PHYSIOLOGY.

Health is life, the great instrument of talent, virtue, and happiness, all of which it augments. To its preservation and restoration, special attention will be given.

VITAL MAGNETISM.

With practical instruction, interesting facts, and those choice truths which it unfolds, will be presented in this Journal.

WOMAN,

Her duties, education, influence, and natural sphere of action, will be unfolded, and many points of dispute will, by the aid of the science of Phrenology, be settled, by which woman may know and maintain all the powers allotted to her by the laws of Nature.

YOUNG MEN,

The blessings they enjoy, the influence they can wield, and their preparation for conducting our institutions, will form the theme of a series of articles.

SELF-IMPROVEMENT.

Who does not long earnestly, and would not strive assiduously, to cultivate his natural powers, and render himself better and more happy? To such, each number will be a prompter and a text-book.

PROGRESSION

In all things, will be our motto. We shall examine all things which come under our observation, and lay before our readers the result of our investigations, so far as it relates to their well being and the advancement of science.

THE JOURNAL

Will be published monthly, containing thirty-two large octavo pages, on good type and paper, with a variety of engravings, and much practical instruction to learners, on the following very low

TERMS, IN ADVANCE:

Single copy,	$1 00	Ten copies,	$7 00
Five copies,	4 00	Twenty copies,	10 00
